School orientations

- Our school is arranged in three different directions, which differ in their contents.
- These are: Universal direction, Scientific - mathematical direction and Language direction.

Universal direction

This direction covers every part of human scientific activity and it's attended by about 180 students from each generation. It's the most popular direction, and it's attended by the students which are equally good at all school subjects or those who haven't decided which university to choose.

Scientific - mathematical direction

- This direction is attended by students who are good at maths, physics, chemistry and computer science.
- There are prejudices about them, some say they are nerds, but we can certainly say that they are (or they'll be) geniuses. :)

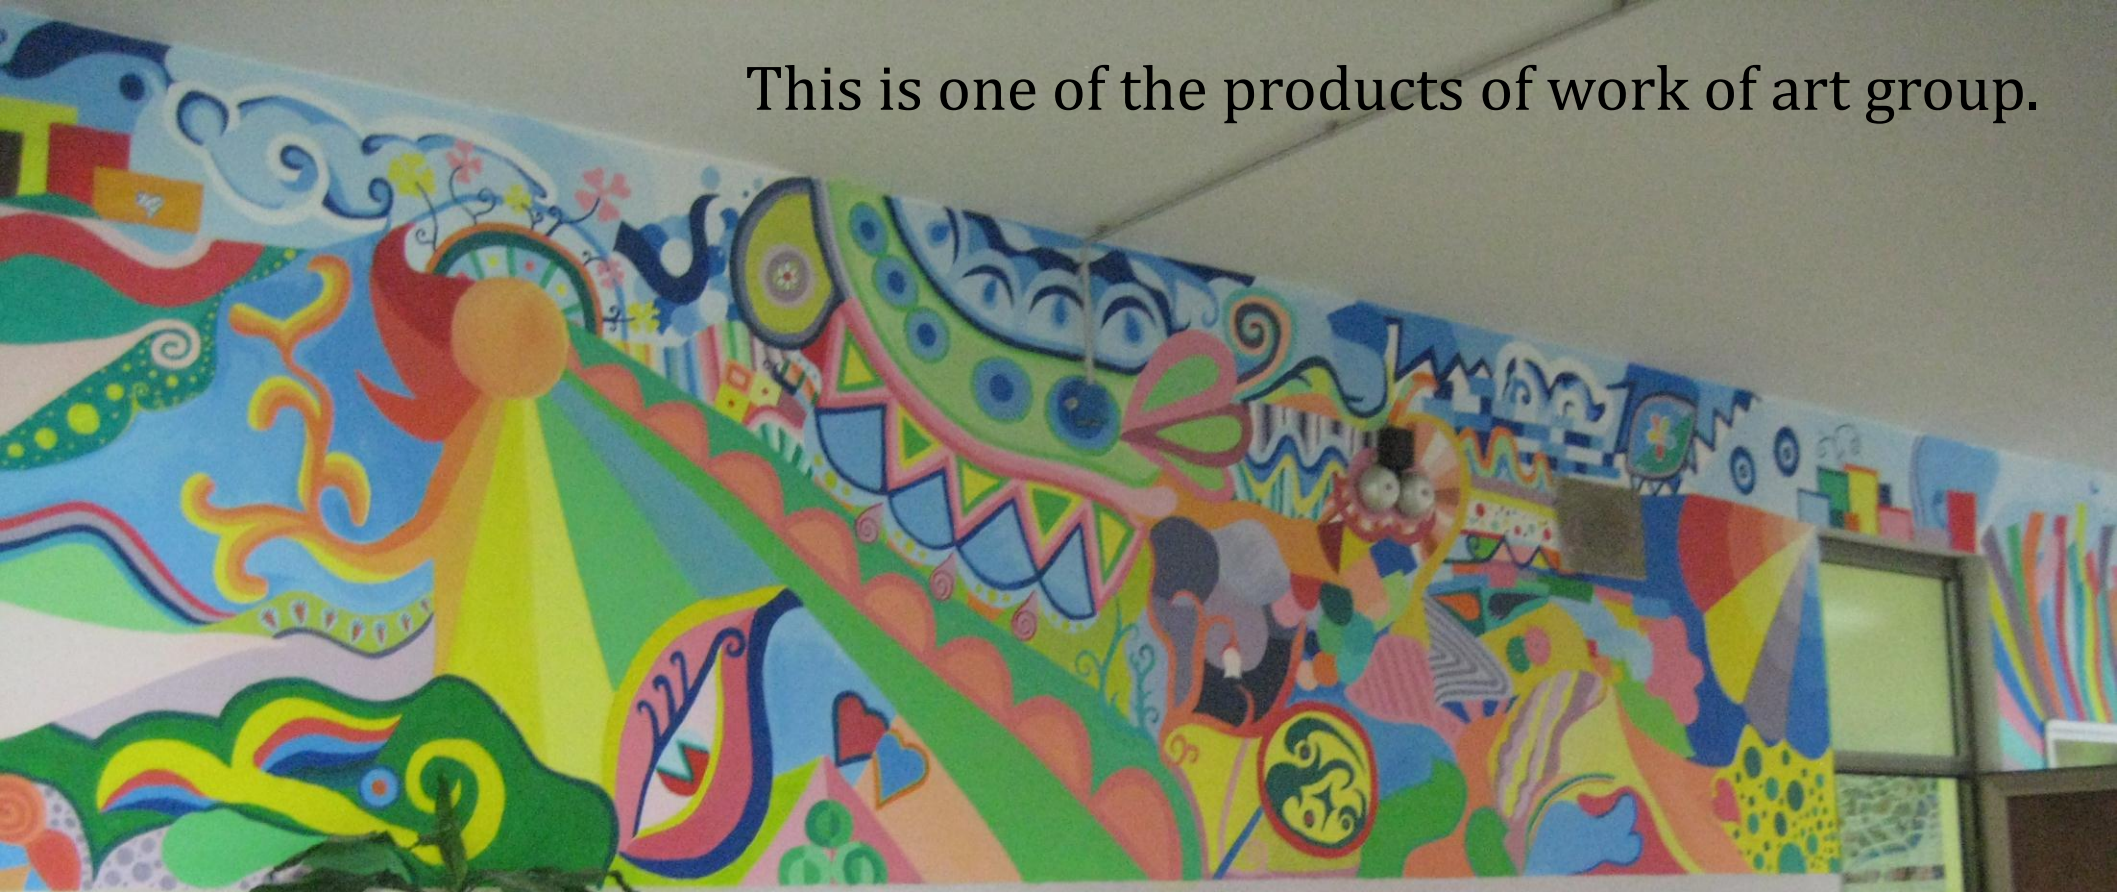

Language direction

Students who attend this direction have more language lessons and less math lessons than others. It's a great option for those who are good at it.

Extracurricular Activities

- Astronomy
- School Orchestra
- DSD (Deutsches Sprachdiplom) – for students who are good at German
- Journalism – students which make a school magazine called “Otrovno pero” (Poison pen)
- Art group
- Sports (football, volleyball)
- Globe
- English group
